TOOLS & SUPPLIES

+ 1 medium cardboard box

+ Scissors

+ Box cutter — ADULT USE ONLY (eye holes)

+ Packing tape

+ Pencil for tracing

+ Paint or markers in your creature colours

FUN FACT!

Masks are older than writing. The oldest one ever found is a stone face from about 9,000 years ago.

CHALLENGE!

Creature challenge: give it a name and a sound. Then scare somebody in the kitchen.

BUILD GUIDE — FREE CARDBOARD CREATURE MASK

1

STEP 1: MEASURE THE FACE

Hold the flattened cardboard against the child's face. Mark where the eyes sit and where the chin ends. Both cuts below are measured from those two marks, so the mask fits the child you actually have.

2

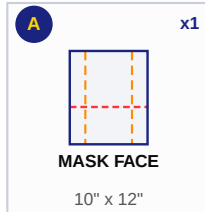

STEP 2: CUT THE FACE & EYE HOLES

! ADULT ASSIST NEEDED

Cut the Mask Face (10" × 12" (25 × 30 cm)). Cut BOTH eye holes on the marked eye line — at least 2" (5 cm) wide each. Hold it up and check: the child must see left and right without turning their head.

SAFETY: Adult cuts the eye holes. Wide eye holes are the whole safety story on a mask — never trim them smaller to look neater.

3

STEP 3: CURVE THE MASK

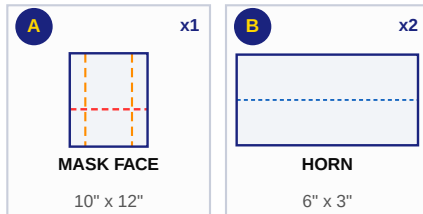

Score the two vertical fold lines and bend both side panels backward. A flat rectangle becomes a face shape that wraps. A gentle curve, not a hard fold.

4

STEP 4: ROLL THE HORNS

Roll each Horn strip from the long edge into a cone, wide end down. Tape the seam solid. Cut two small slots in the top of the Mask Face, push the horns through and tape from behind.

STEP 5: FIT THE STRAP

! ADULT ASSIST NEEDED

Tape one end of the Head Strap to the left side of the mask, run it around the back of the head and tape the other end to the right side. AROUND THE HEAD, never around the neck.

SAFETY: Strap around the head only. Never around the neck, and never a loop the mask can hang from.

STEP 6: PAINT & QUALITY CHECK

Paint your creature. Then the real test: child wears it, walks the hallway, turns their head both ways and reads something across the room. Eyes clear, strap comfortable. That is the standard.

SAFETY: Add reflective tape or a glow stick if this is going out after dark on Halloween.

QUALITY CHECK!
